As winter approaches, our immune systems can become over-burdened with the exposure to an influx of contagious microbes. Many natural remedies can support and strengthen our immunity, but Barlean's Olive Leaf Complex is one of the most recognized broad-spectrum immune-supporting anti-microbial agents available.

Clinical trials published in Nutrition Research Reviews reveal that Olive Leaf provides an abundant source of numerous synergistic phenolic compounds such as oleuropein and quercetin. These have specifically been shown to have a pharmacological effect on immunity in helping fight bacteria, viruses and fungi.

With an emergence of resistant germs, Olive Leaf is increasingly being used to combat colds, flu, sinus infections, strep throat and bronchitis. Barlean's Olive Leaf Complex is fresh-picked and pressed and has been clinically proven safe and effective. It's available in soft gels, full-spectrum liquid or convenient throat spray.

As always, we guarantee your satisfaction.
